Unsatiated tory Handling of Potential Applicant-

7 Ma	•
1. To mitigate the effect of our field recruiter's, handling of the inquiry of I have done the following:	25X1 25X1
a. On 8 August I was able to reach by telephone. I told him the matter had come to my attention and that I wanted	25X1
to apologize for the most unsatisfactory and impolite handling of his inquiry and I told him that I was investigating thoroughly the incident.	2 2
b. I mailed to the brochure and other recruiting materials that should have been sent to him originally in response to his request.
c. Since was in no way hostile to the Agency and said he was very interested in the possibility of employment with us, II also sent him application forms and told him that if he would let me know of his continuing interest I would arrange for our to visit him to discuss in greater detail the types of careers CIA can offer.
2. On 9 August I reviewed carefully with the sequence of events and the internal procedures which led to the	25X1
initial non-responsiveness of correspondence and failure to reply to correspondence. It is apparent that must immediately train his secretary to be more responsive and personalized in preparing applicant correspondence and to establish a tight control system to ensure that all correspondence is answered.	25X1
3. With regard to I can only say that I feel sure that he will never again evidence personal pique in any Agency correspondence. Since he is our field recruiter with a production record vastly in excess of any of his colleagues, I can only assume that he has permitted his office routine to become routinized and when something went wrong he tended to place the fault with the other party.
